

News of South Richmond

South Richmond Bureau.
The Times-Dispatch,
1102 Hull Street.
At West End Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday morning the following Sunday school officers were elected: Superintendent Sunday School, W. H. Taylor; First Assistant Superintendent, A. H. Thomas; Second Assistant Superintendent, F. E. Clarke; Treasurer, Miss Lillian Adkins; Librarian, Allen Ebb; Assistant Librarian, Thomas Wilson; Secretary Librarian, Guy Belcher; Assistant Secretary Librarian, James Wilson; Organist, Miss Maria Redford; First Assistant Organist, Miss Mary Brooking; Second Assistant Organist, Miss Louise Williams; Chorister, Miss Ida Butler; Assistant Chorister, Mr. C. E. Bass; Secretary, Charles E. Bass; Assistant Secretary, John M. Cersley.

Released Under Bond.
Sunday morning about 1 o'clock Hardy Coy was assaulted by Joseph Rooks, both colored, and badly cut up by a pocketknife. The attack occurred in the lower part of the Richmond Armory. An ambulance was called and Coy removed for surgical aid. Yesterday morning in Police Court the assault was released upon a bond of $250. Anna Davis, over whom the trouble occurred, was married to Coy in Police Court yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. Rooks has been sent to the grand jury.

Held on Serious Charge.
J. P. Taff, a white man about thirty-eight years of age, is in the custody of the South Richmond police as a suspicious character, but such damaging evidence is against him that the more serious charge of breaking into Baldwin's store in the dead of night will undoubtedly be preferred against him. Between 11 o'clock and midnight Saturday night Baldwin's store, 129 Hull Street, was broken into and nine coats stolen. The whole South Richmond police force immediately vigilant, and their efforts met with success last night. They entered upon the arrested man, Taff, who is a native of Illinois. Taff, who is a native of Illinois, came to South Richmond about a week ago and got lodging at McDonough Street, near Twelfth Street. He got employment at Belle Isle, and very little was known of him. Last night, about 8 o'clock, when the police were strong upon his trail, he walked into the police station. He was either too much under the influence of liquor to realize what he was doing, or else tried a bluff. He wore at that time two coats with the label "Hawthorn". He was instantly locked up and will be arraigned this morning. He had in his possession a pawn ticket. The door of the caravanserai had been pried open, and the robber is supposed to have used two pieces of horsehoof, the property of Belle Isle, to pry the opening. Seven coats are still missing.

Jack Robinson, a negro, was sent to the grand jury yesterday, charged with assault. William Minick, also colored, was released upon a bond of $250.

Memorial Day Plans.
The various committees appointed not long ago from the general fraternal order to discuss and plan the celebration of Memorial Day in Maury Cemetery next spring met last night at 8 o'clock in the Frazer Hotel. The meeting was held in the parlors of the hotel. This evening at 8 o'clock a special review will be held on the grand jury.

Not So Serious.
A member of the South Richmond Fire Department said last night that the extent of the damage suffered by the fire at Brockton Street Church Sunday night would not exceed $1000. The interior of the church was only slightly damaged. The roof of the edifice no longer remains, but its falling in would have ruined the carpet and did not materially damage the pews.

Chester Won.
The Oak Grove Invincibles journeyed over to Chester last Saturday and played a very creditable game against the strong local eleven, the final count being 1 to 6 in favor of the visitors. Although greatly outwitted by the visitors put up a clean, bitter struggle, and before the end Chester knew it had been in a game.

General News Notes.
Next Thursday night at 8 o'clock an "Old Folks" concert composed of songs and tales will be given in the lecture-room of Bainbridge Street Baptist Church for the benefit of the annex. Nothing has been agreed to make the entertainment a success. Mr. and Mrs. Minor Brough and children, who have been visiting their parents, left about week ago for their home in Albemarle county.

George E. Gary and daughters, Miss Eleanor and Lily Gary, and niece, Miss Annie DuVal, are in New York attending the horse show.

Miss Harriet Crews, after a pleasant visit to friends in Chester, has returned to her home in Richmond.

AROUND THE HOTELS

"During the recent campaign in Rockingham and Shenandoah counties," said Senator George B. Kezsell at Newport last night, "the fight between the two factions of the Republican party was so bitter and so strenuous that many Democrats actually became personally interested in the success of one or the other side. This fact lost Mr. Hay, the Democratic nominee, many votes."

The various committees appointed not long ago from the general fraternal order to discuss and plan the celebration of Memorial Day in Maury Cemetery next spring met last night at 8 o'clock in the Frazer Hotel. The meeting was held in the parlors of the hotel. This evening at 8 o'clock a special review will be held on the grand jury.

Helped Paul's Vote.
"Other causes," continued Senator Kezsell, "contributed to the success of Mr. Paul. Most of these causes were personal. I foresee the result and did my best to prevent it. The result was in line so that the Republicans would not be encouraged by the fact that the vote for their two candidates combined reached a large volume."

Senator Kezsell is being urged to accept the appointment for county treasurer to succeed W. C. Carter, who has resigned. To take effect January 1, the treasurer, ship of Rockingham is one of the best paying offices in the State, as the county is very large and rich, has many towns, but no cities to divert the tax receipts, which all go through the hands of the county treasurer. A general protest has gone up over the State, and possibly of losing Senator Kezsell's services in the State Senate, where for many years he has been a central figure, especially in connection with the tax problems of the State are to be adjusted. But it is pointed out that there is no need of a conflict, since if he should now accept an appointment as treasurer, it would be only for the unexpired term of Mr. Carpenter for one year, and next summer he would be eligible to be a candidate for the new term or for the Senate.

State Veterinarian J. G. Fernebaugh came to the city last night.

Armistead C. Gordon, of Staunton, is here to attend to-night's meeting of the State Library Board.

AMUSEMENTS.

Academy of Music—"Ben Hur."

Call it what you like—play, spectacle, drama, or even sermon—"Ben Hur" is one of the most thrilling, absorbing and beautiful productions ever put on this stage of ours. Year after year it draws the same enormous crowds. Many of us have seen it three or four times, and each time the chariot race stirs and excites the imagination, and the beauty and reverence with which the theme of the Saviour is treated softens us and fills us with wonder—wonder at the great genius of the man that wrote the book, and at the faithful work of apparently unnumbered artists who have so wonderfully arranged it for the stage.

Last night there was literally not a vacant seat in the house, save for a few in the upper boxes; many of the audience had seen the play time and again, and yet there was the same earnest and tense interest in the quieter scenes and the same genuine excitement during the thrilling moments that marked the first performance of this wonderful play. And no wonder. There has never been a more gripping, enthralling bit of stagecraft

Doctor's Prescription Failed-- The Great Kidney Remedy Proves Its Merit.

It gives me great pleasure to say a good word for Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because it has cured me of a severe case of Kidney Trouble. I had suffered for some five years with this trouble, and more especially for the first three months of 1909.

Physicians prescribed for me, but without much success, and at last I obtained only temporary relief. I had severe pains in my back, and at no time was I free of pain. When I stooped down it was with some difficulty that I could straighten my body again. I could not lift any weight of consequence without great pain. I would be compelled to arise and give the bladder relief. A friend of mine advised me to take Swamp-Root, whereupon I wrote to Dr. Kilmer for a sample bottle, which so benefited me that I was led to believe it would be a great help to me.

Accordingly I purchased two bottles of Swamp-Root from Mr. A. P. Perry, my druggist, and the effect has been truly marvelous.

I feel like a new man, and have every reason to believe that I am cured, and that no other medicine could have accomplished so much. Now I can raise a heavy load, can bend my back over my desk all day, and none the worse for it. In view of the foregoing facts, I sincerely trust that this testimonial may reach some of those who are suffering after the manner before described, and that it may convince them that the merit of this great medicine should be given a fair trial in their case.

Very truly yours,
B. A. WILSON, Agt.,
Pac. and Wells-Fargo Ex. Co.,

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do

Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince any one. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention the Richmond Daily Times-Dispatch. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

The curtain rang down a few minutes after eleven.

Fortunately "Ben Hur" is really a one-man play, because except for Walter M. Sherwin (Messala), who was very good, Anthony Andre (Simonides), who was satisfactory, and Maud Ream Stover (Amrah), who was beyond criticism in her small part, Ben Hur himself was not well supported by the rest of the cast. The women, particularly, showed little ability.

But Ben Hur is the only part that matters much, and that was played with great power, ability and magnetism by Richard Buhler, a remarkably handsome man of unusually fine physique. He was more than good all through the performance, but when he spoke of the Boy who gave him the water to drink, and when he learned that his mother and sister were alive, but in the hands of the Romans, he rose to a high point of dramatic strength. A young man, but one who should go far.

Practically all of the pleasure of the first part of the performance was muted by the late coming, although every newspaper in Richmond has advertised for days the fact that the curtain would go up at 8 o'clock, the inconsiderate continued to come in until after 8:30, thus spoiling several of the most interesting portions of the play.

The management kept these persons in the back of the house as long as possible, but the ordinance forbids standing in the aisles or vestibules, and it was compelled to allow them to enter the seats, regardless of the annoyance caused to others. W. D. G.

To His Tender Mercy.
Melodramas, good and bad, have since their fling in the Broadway stage, had the Broadway stage playhouse took its place among Richmond theatres, many years ago. Some of them hit the popular chord, while others fell far short.

Last night's performance of Augusta Evans Wilson's "At the Mercy of Tiberius," turned out to be one of those that the people liked and applauded, and in spite of the fact that the academy of music was filled to overflowing for the first performance of "Ben Hur," the actors were few and far between.

Almost every one knows the story of "At the Mercy of Tiberius"—the opening scene in a sordid New York lodging-house, the crisis in a palatial Virginia home, and the conclusion at a lonely mountain mission. And in this latter place, he remembered, the arms of the prosecuting attorney, with whom she is perfectly willing to place herself for the rest of her mortal existence, being taken and where his incarnation of a most cruel Roman, and at the same time a safe person with whom to link one's future well-being.

Compared with other shows of the kind at the Bijou, last night's production was a masterpiece. It is true that the first act dragged, but there was plenty of action in the rest of it. Even as Beryl Brentano was the sunshine of the book, so was Miss Eleanor Montell the savior in that character on the stage. There was nothing left for a weeping and sympathetic audience to do but to cheer and applaud. The first act dragged, but there was plenty of action in the rest of it. Even as Beryl Brentano was the sunshine of the book, so was Miss Eleanor Montell the savior in that character on the stage. There was nothing left for a weeping and sympathetic audience to do but to cheer and applaud.

Edmund Roberts, taking the part of Bertie Brentano, the wayward brother, who sacrificed his career for his sister, and afterwards squandered things, was weaker in the first act than the usual young gambler, but he came up strong as a actor when subjected to the "third degree" by the police, and also when he hobbled a hopelessly paralytic into the mission where he was taken, reduced and where his sister at last resigned herself wearily and tearfully to "the mercy of Tiberius."
